Head Shots for APEX Fellowships

Images of APEX Fellows are widely used on and off-campus! We ask for a tightly cropped head & shoulders shot. This should be professional-ish in appearance, like what you would use for a LinkedIn profile.

Here are a few tips for getting the kind of headshot we look to use:

- Have someone else take the photo. NO SELFIES. APEX offers photo service for free.
- Use a neutral background. The background should not distract from you!
- Use good lighting. Photos taken outdoors early in the morning or later in the afternoon when the sun is low, or on a cloudy day usually provide very good lighting. Photos taken indoors should be taken by someone who knows how to control lighting. The finished product should be free of shadows.
- Have the photo taken close enough so the image of your head and face is clear and fills approximately half the frame.
- If you choose to stand against a background such as a wall, stand one to two feet away from it. This way, you won't look plastered up against it and it's easier for you to be the focus.
- Present a professional appearance. A few tips: Groom hair and facial hair so it is neat; keep chest and shoulders covered; wear a collared or tailored shirt in neutral colors and/or conservative patterns; keep jewelry to a minimum.

Below are examples of head shots of some APEX Fellows that follow these guidelines:

Below are examples of headshots that do not follow these guidelines:

Although taken against a neutral background, students are not professional in appearance. The face on the right is partially shadowed.

Image is fuzzy. Background is too busy. Head & face take up only 1/3 of frame.

Selfie! Not professional in appearance, background distracting.
