CAREER RELATED VALUES

Identifying your career related values is one of the most important factors in considering your career possibilities. Vital questions to explore:

Do my values match my interests?

I = VERY IMPORTANT

Do my values match the work involved in a particular career?

2 = Reasonably

Often people are surprised and/or disappointed when they find their chosen career does not match with their career values. For instance, the career may involve long hours (no family time) or does not pay a large salary (no out of town vacations). This exercise gives you the opportunity to rank your career values and reflect on why they are important and how they play an important role in your career development.

The following list describes a wide variety of satisfactions that people obtain from their jobs. Look at the definitions of these various satisfactions and rate the degree of importance that you would assign to each, using the scale below:

3 = Not very important 4 = Not important at all
