

BIO 550 Graduate Journal Club – Molecular Cell Biology (1 credit)

Course description: This course is a graduate-level scientific journal club in which students present recent ground-breaking published research papers in the fields of Molecular Biology, Cell Biology and Biochemistry. This course will develop ability of students to critically assess scientific literature including experimental design, data analysis and the broader implications of new scientific advances.