What I liked
Mayo Clinic is an absolutely fantastic and inspiring institution. Additionally, everybody there was very welcoming, accommodating, and offered to help in any way possible to make this an enjoyable and productive experience for me.

What I wish was different
Because I was considered a "non-employee" (not an official paid student intern) I did not enjoy the gym benefits.

Advice
I got this through reaching out to my professor and joining his lab, so I encourage others to do the same. Also, prepare to work very independently and have your own creative ideas. My internship was not structured at all, and I was responsible for finding my own ultimate research topic.

 Austin Ha

What I liked
Hands on experience as a project manager for a suite of applications handling movie order fulfillment to theaters, well developed project management office

What I wish was different
During my short 2.5 months, 3 contractors were let go making me question the overall culture for engineers in disney.

Advice
Spend a lot of time with project managers learning how they approach their work and their attitude towards their team during times of difficulty.

Do Boeing interns get to have good work-life balance?

Alexandra Grochowski

Senior at University of Illinois at Urbana-Champaign

15 days ago

The work life balance will depend on your specific team but you likely will have a good balance between work and life. Most interns work no more than 40 hours a week, if you become full time you may work more depending on the situation. I had plenty of time for extracurricular activities.

Specifically for Summer Analysts, what should I know beforehand to succeed?

Isabel Macaulay

Senior at Emory University

Work ethic is definitely number one, as is the ability to have a thick skin and ask for critical feedback as often as possible. Be transparent about your skills, strengths, and progress. Be prepared to put in face time at the office even if it's unnecessary for you to be there. Understand that it's not always appropriate for interns and beginning analysts to speak/ask questions at certain meetings with senior management present. It's more important to get work done than to get it done perfectly.

Confidence, eagerness to learn, intellectual curiosity, attention to detail, & never being afraid to ask a question. Everyone thinks they have good attention to detail until you get a markup back on a slide deck you put together and see just how much you missed. As long as those mistakes are

Meet employers at events on campus

Employers regularly host events on campus. Don't miss out on the opportunity to meet with them – whether it is a career fair, info session, on-campus interview, or even a coffee chat.

The screenshot displays the Handshake 'Upcoming Events' interface. At the top, there is a navigation bar with the Handshake logo, a search bar, and links for Jobs, Events, Q&A, Messages, Career Center, and a user profile for Samhita. Below the navigation, the main content area is titled 'Upcoming Events' and features a search bar with buttons for 'Search Events', 'Find Career Fairs', 'Request Appointments', and 'Explore Jobs'. The events are organized into three sections: 'Events today', 'Events this week', and 'Events in the future'. Each event card includes a logo, the event title, date and time, location, and registration status. For example, the 'Prudential Student Webinar Series' is on March 14th at 4:00 pm EDT, with 1 student registered. The 'Graduate Student Document Writing Days for Job Applications' is on June 24th at 2:00 pm EDT, with 0 students registered. The 'J.P. Morgan Corporate & Investment Bank Online Academy' is on June 25th at 5:00 pm EDT, with 31 students registered. The 'Oliver Wyman Summer Reception' is on June 27th at 7:00 pm EDT, with 1 student registered. The 'Graduate Student Document Writing Days for Job Applications' is also listed for July 1st at 2:00 pm EDT, with 0 students registered. On the right side, there are four sections: 'Your Upcoming Events' (no events), 'Your Upcoming Appointments' (no appointments), 'Your Upcoming Career Fairs' (no career fairs), and 'Your Upcoming Interviews' (no interviews). Each section has a 'Find some events' or 'Apply to some jobs' button.
