Regarding COVID-19 and Related Circumstances

To our 2022 Summer Stipend Award Recipients:

We are partners in each student's professional development, and we expect them to make informed decisions with regards to personal safety. Should a student continue in-person at an internship site, they must adhere to state law and COVID-19 directives, and to CDC guidelines. They are expected to concurrently follow those organizational mandates and safety procedures dictated by the internship site.

Should such a student elect to continue in-person at the internship, the student does so at their own risk. Please note that the College makes no representations or assurances that the internship site is safe to return to or attend with respect to COVID-19. Any student who is not comfortable continuing in-person should immediately speak with their internship supervisor to explore alternative options with them, including but not limited to remote internship and independent projects. The Gateway Career Center is available to provide conversational assistance to the student in support of their safety and well-being.
