Experiential Education

At Westfield State University

During the 2025–2026 academic year, approximately 1,000 undergraduate and graduate students from Westfield State University engaged in experiential education opportunities, including internships and field placements. These students collectively contributed over 225,000 hours of service across schools, businesses, and nonprofit organizations. This hands-on experience is central to our commitment to providing students with meaningful, real-world learning opportunities that complement their academic coursework.

Experiential education—whether through internships, field experiences, or service-learning—is a powerful tool for career development. By applying classroom knowledge in real-world settings, students gain invaluable industry insights, develop practical skills, and expand their professional networks. These experiences encourage deeper self-reflection, allowing students to assess their strengths and refine their career goals. In fact, research consistently shows that students who participate in experiential education programs are more likely to secure employment within six months of graduation, with higher levels of job satisfaction and career success.

At Westfield State, we continue to expand our outreach efforts, building new partnerships with employers and internship sites that reflect the diverse career interests of our students. Our dedicated faculty and staff play a key role in connecting students with these opportunities, ensuring they receive the guidance and support needed to make the most of their experiences.

These partnerships also benefit the organizations involved. Employers gain access to a motivated pool of young talent eager to contribute fresh perspectives and innovative ideas. Many organizations extend job offers to students after internships, recognizing their potential, work ethic, and ability to contribute meaningfully to the workplace.

Below is a list of organizations that hosted Westfield State University students during the 2025–2026 academic year. We are grateful to these partners for their continued support and for helping us prepare the next generation of professionals.

Sincerely,

Junior Delgado
Director, Career Center

International Programs

At Westfield State University, students can experience the world as their classroom through a variety of global learning opportunities. Students can study abroad for a semester or year in more than 36 countries, participate in an exchange at a partner institution, explore a new culture through a short-term course, or spend a semester at a National Student Exchange member campus. Whatever they choose, students expand their perspectives, build independence, and gain valuable experience navigating new environments and cultures. Westfield State also welcomes international degree-seeking and exchange students from 32 countries, bringing new perspectives and opportunities for intercultural learning to our campus community.

Center for Undergraduate Research and Creative Activity

The Center for Undergraduate Research and Creative Activity (CURCA), under the leadership of Director, Dr. Misty Woodbury, promotes and provides strategic cross-disciplinary support for all students, faculty, and staff to engage in creative scholarship. The goal is to remove barriers and empower students by facilitating and fostering collaborative engagement, professional development, and funding to support student research and creative activity in and out of the classroom.

CURCA supports students at all levels of the curriculum, including First-Year and Common Core Classes, Independent Studies, Major-specific classes, Summer Research programs, and Honors projects. We help to provide opportunities for students to explore their passions, expand their knowledge, and create a competitive portfolio of meaningful skills and experiences.
