The Consumer Financial Protection Bureau is hiring recent graduates with strong analytical skills and a passion for public service.

About the CFPB

The Consumer Financial Protection Bureau is an independent federal agency that aims to make consumer financial markets work for consumers, responsible providers, and the economy as a whole. We protect consumers from unfair, deceptive, or abusive practices and take action against companies that break the law. We arm people with the information, steps, and tools that they need to make smart financial decisions.

What does the job entail?

The Director’s Financial Analyst program is a rigorous rotational experience designed to introduce recent graduates to public service.

- Spend two year-long rotations in various CFPB offices to gain exposure to multiple policy areas.
- Communicate to senior leaders across the Bureau through written and oral presentations.
- Enhance consumer protection and access through data analysis that drives supervision, enforcement, and innovation.
- Encourage consumer education, assist in promoting fair lending, and research issues pertinent to American consumers.

What you’ll get

Empower fellow American consumers, develop your professional skills, and grow your public service network through exposure to many aspects of a mission-driven agency. Join a cohort of exceptional, public service minded peers and stay connected throughout your career journey.

Alumni of the DFA program have moved on to graduate programs (e.g. Stanford Law, Princeton MPP, Dartmouth MBA), public sector opportunities (e.g. DC city government, Federal Reserve Banks), private industry, and other divisions within the CFPB.

Enjoy competitive compensation and government employee benefits while performing vital public service work.

Ready to apply?

The position will be available on consumerfinance.gov/careers from December 6, 2021 through January 3, 2022. Recent graduates who have received an undergraduate degree on or after April 2019 and before June 2022 are eligible to apply.

Send us a note at CFPB_DFA_Program@cfpb.gov if you would like to know when the application is live or if you have questions about the federal hiring process.
