This link allows you to research law schools by price range, law school ranking (i.e. tiered rankings), GPA and LSAT scores, just to name a few categories. This is a great way for you to narrow your choices and understand what different law schools offer.

REGISTER TO TAKE THE LSAT DURING LATE JUNIOR/EARLY SENIOR YEAR

<https://www.lsac.org/discover-law/types-law-programs/jd-degree-programs>

You must register with LSAC (Law School Admission Council) to take the LSAT. Test schedules and registration information can be found on the LSAC site - sign up now to receive timely information.

PREPARE TO TAKE LSAT

<https://www.lsac.org/lSAT/prep/khan-academy-official-lsat>

LSAC works in conjunction with the Khan Academy to offer free LSAT prep. The LSAT is very different and much more difficult than the SAT - preparation & study are strongly recommended before taking the LSAT.

APPLY TO LAW SCHOOLS IN FALL OF SENIOR YEAR

<https://www.lsac.org/jd-applicants/steps-apply-jd-programs>

LSAC has a complete step by step Juris Doctorate (JD) Application Process checklist for you to follow. Note: application requirements will vary by law school.
