This course selection sheet is for the following major: Political Science

Information on course selection/requirements | Course
--- | ---
First Year Seminar Requirement | All incoming freshmen will complete this requirement by taking either FYS 101 or an alternative University Curriculum course (your summer advisor will help you determine which courses will satisfy this requirement).
FYS101 or University Curriculum course

English | Please refer to your English placement exam summary.
EN101 or EN101I

Math | Do not take a math course in the fall semester of your freshman year. Plan to take math in the spring of your freshman year. We advise political science majors to take MA 206: Statistics for the Behavioral Sciences.
None

Courses in your major | PO 101 Section 01 – for majors only (you will be pre-registered)
PO 131: Introduction to American Government - unless you are receiving AP or college credit (you will be pre-registered)
PO 215: If you are receiving AP credit for PO 101 or PO 131, take PO 215 Political Theory

PO101, PO131, PO 215

Courses outside your major | Choose one or two courses, either in the University Curriculum or among other choices, that fit with your academic goals.
Choose 1-2 courses
Please search the University Catalog for courses.

PLEASE NOTE: All students will register for the courses listed above unless otherwise notified by their school or department.

TOTAL FALL 2020 CREDITS: 15-16 CREDITS

Placement Tests

English, math, and language placement assessments are now available. These must be completed – even if you are expecting transfer or AP credit – at least 7 days prior to attending orientation in order to complete your fall registration. For more information see QStart.

Language Study

The languages we offer are Spanish, French, German, Italian, Chinese, Japanese, Hebrew, and Arabic.

All CAS students must complete or test out of the 102 level of a language. A placement test is required if you studied French, German, Italian, or Spanish in high school and wish to study the language further.
Your language placement result is then available in Student Planning; you will see which language course you place into.

If you studied a language for three or more years in high school, and you received three or more grades in the B range or higher, you may not register for the 101 level of that language. If you decide to take a new language, you should begin with a 101-level course. Please contact CASDeans@qu.edu if Student Planning prevents you from enrolling in any modern language course that you believe is at the appropriate level for you. You may have to wait a semester to get into the language of your choice.

Course Descriptions can be found in the University Catalog, which is on the QU website, and through Student Planning.

Advising

As soon as possible, you will be assigned a summer advisor, whose name you can find in Student Planning. During the summer, you may contact your advisor if you have questions about your fall schedule, the registration process, or requirements for your major. As a backup you can contact the College of Arts and Sciences Dean’s Office at CASDeans@qu.edu.

Once the fall semester begins, you will be assigned a faculty advisor. In September please check Student Planning for your faculty advisor’s name.

If you have decided you would like to pursue a different major, please phone the Admissions Office at (203) 582-8600.
